ICCC Annual Conference

This year I once again had the opportunity to attend the International Council of Community Churches (ICCC) gathering in Dublin, Ohio. Our church body is in fellowship with this organization, and we often partner with them on larger mission projects. Our theme this year was "God, Heal Us." The conference was centered on 2 Chronicles 7:14 which states "If my people, who are called by my name, will humble themselves and pray and seek my face and turn from their wicked ways, then I will hear from heaven, and I will forgive their sin and will heal their land." The week was full of worship, Bible study, and prayer.

Worship

Rev. Dr. Schade & Ministerium Leaders

I've continued to work on the Ministerium leadership team, which serves the clergy of the ICCC. This year we were able to bring in a phenomenal speaker, Rev. Dr. Leah Schade. Rev. Dr. Schade is the Associate Professor of Worship and Preaching at Lexington Theological Seminary. She ran a workshop on how we can preach difficult topics in a divisive time. For Bible Study she taught us how to approach scripture from a dialogical lens. I'm still thinking of how I can incorporate what I've learned from her.

I'm grateful this year our Church Council Chair Shauna Oden and Vice Chair Bonnie Ingraham for also attending this year. They were able to serve as voting delegates in the Business Meetings and participate in the conference's new visioning process titled S.O.A.R. They were also able to attend the opening Fellowship Lunch and Prayer Luncheon.

One of the best things about church conferences is being able to hear about how God has moved and is moving in the world. We were blessed by the Women's Christian Fellowship who chose to dedicate their program to Caroline Burke this year. Caroline was the wife of our founding pastor Carl Burke. It was a wonderful testimony of how faithful service lives beyond us. I'd encourage you to take a moment and read the Mission Moment later in this newsletter for another great example!

Next year the conference will be in Charlotte, NC. If you are curious about learning more or interested in attending, please let me know! You can also check out the ICCC website at www.icccnow.org. The conference is open to all ICCC churches and their members.

In His dust,

Pastor Jennifer

Your Neighbors in the Pew - Don and Lois Lucas by Julie A. Best

From one mountainous area to another - that's what Don and Lois Lucas say about their journey to Tellico Village.

Lois was born and raised in New Brighton, PA. New Brighton is a borough in Beaver County, Pennsylvania, located along the Beaver River 28 miles northwest of Pittsburgh. Upon graduation from high school, she went to nursing school. She is quick to tell you that she is a "diploma" nurse, which means that all her training was in the hospital setting. Lois says, "I was a nurse when we really took care of the patient - from bathing them to administering medication, and all duties in-between." The nurses wore white uniforms and caps. Each school had their own cap which designated their training. Her hourly wage was $2.00 an hour, and the year was 1966. We fondly remember those days!

She married at age 21, and left New Brighton. Her husband was in the military when their first child, a son, was born. They were stationed at Okinawa at the time. A daughter was born a few years later.

Lois' first husband died at age 43 of a heart attack.

Don grew up in Valley View, PA, which is a small burg near Harrisburg, PA. Upon graduation from high school he went to Penn State and graduated with a degree in accounting. He went to work for General Electric at Binghamton, NY. As companies do, he was "bought and sold" several times, but the main thrust of his work remained the same - he worked for companies that designed and manufactured flight and engine controls for aircraft. He was the financial guy, determining what was the most profitable way for the companies to function. He married and had three children - two boys and a girl. After 24 years, that marriage ended in divorce.

By this time, both Don and Lois' families attended the same church. Lois says, "We had known each other for years before we became a couple. There were no surprises!" They have been happily married for 29 years.

So, how did they find Tellico Village? Well, they had a motor home, and they traveled to and from New York to Florida frequently. During those trips, they enjoyed their east Tennessee experiences - mountains, trees, lakes, and four seasons. Lois says, "We thought we had four seasons in New York, but we really didn't!" After visiting Tellico Village, they never looked at other retirement communities.

They moved here in 2008, and visited the Community Church at Tellico Village right away. The next week, sweet Bob Puckett knocked on their door to welcome them to the church, and that was it. They have been good faithful members for about 14 years now.

As we find so often, they brought with them their experiences and talents, and put them to good use in our church and the community. Lois does Friendship Kitchen among other things, and most recently, Don as served as the chair of our Financial Team. They both volunteer at Good Samaritan. Lois says, "Good Sam is the best thing I have ever seen!" They have experienced the good help that the organization provides to our community, and are blessed to be a part of the team.

Don's term on the finance team will be up in December. When those responsibilities are over, they plan to do a little traveling. They have a camper, and they want to be free to roam a bit. Well deserved!

We are delighted that east Tennessee looks so much like the mountains of New York where you came from. Don says, "We love it here!" And, we love having you. Thank you, Lois and Don, for all that you have done for our church and our community.

God and Dog are Man's Best Friends By Jeannine Wolf

As many of you know, my husband and I have been puppy raisers for Canine Companions, a national service dog organization. We are currently raising our 3rd dog, George VIII. George is the VIII since they have had eight different Georges since 1975. George will go off to professional training this month to be groomed and specially trained for a handicapped adult, child, wounded warrior, hearing impaired individual or become a facility dog. We wish him the best.

At this time of year since the weather is so hot, I tend to reread books. My favorite all time Christian author is Phillip Keller who is well known for his book, A Shepherd Looks at Psalm 23. However, his book Lessons from a Sheep Dog is what I want to tell you about. In this book Phillip tells the story of Lass, a scrawny, enraged sheep dog who is transformed into a strong, vibrant worker. Through unwavering patience and love, Lass learns the lessons of trust, obedience, faithfulness, and discipline. Just like Lass, we too can be changed if we will simply listen and obey the Master's voice.

By far God is our best friend, but many of you know the comfort and joy an animal can bring to one's life. Some even say that is why dog is spelled the way it is since it is God spelled backwards. No matter how hard the dog and God try to comfort us sometimes, we just ignore it. God doesn't give up and sends you a person who will listen, encourage and support you. A Stephen Minister is just that person. If you need extra tender loving care, call one of our leaders today, but don't be surprised if they call you first.

Reading Recommendations

One question I get often is how do you afford to buy so many books? I thought this month I would share a few reading resources with y'all.

#1 – The Libby App – this app connects with your library card to enable you to borrow e-books, audio books, and magazines completely free! I love using it because I am often forgetful about when library books are due. This way, books are automatically returned. You can choose to read on the app or do what I do which is send e-books to your kindle to read. The audio books are great for long car rides. I used my Tellico Village library card to set it up. You can google the Libby app to find online instructions or talk to your local librarian to get it installed.

#2 – McKay's Used Books – this store is in Knoxville off Papermill Drive. If you've never been, it's the size of a Costco! It has an incredible selection of used books, CD's, DVD's, video games, and records. I've bought incredible books for $2 or $3 a piece. They also buy books and offer store credit for them. They are always turning over product, so I usually go once a month.

#3 – Estate Sales – are actually great places to score books. Most folks are there for furniture or other big-ticket items. The books are usually an afterthought. If I really want a certain book, I'll buy it, but I usually wait until Saturday when most sales discount everything by 50 percent.

Book Reviews

I just finished reading Pastor Steve's copy of The Hidden Life of Trees by Peter Wohlleben. The book explores what trees feel and how they communicate and work together to ensure the survival of their species. I learned so many fascinating facts! For example, trees coordinate their blooming and seeding to maximize their chances of successfully producing offspring. Trees can warn one another about insect attacks, and they share water stores with each other. There are many parallels between how trees operate and how we as Christians are called to life together. For example, a tree cut off from other trees never lives as long as those who are part of a group. We as people of faith do better in our walk with Jesus we are a member of a community. The book was a lovely read and I recommend it.

Another great book I read is Her Country: How the Women of Country Music Became the Success They Were Never Supposed to Be by Marissa R. Moss. Growing up in Nashville there was no avoiding country music. My first concert was seeing Alan Jackson. In 1999 women were a big part of country radio. I remember hearing Shaina Twain, The Chicks, Terri Clark, Sara Evans and other women. But in 2021 women make up less than 10% of airtime on country radio. Moss explores what how this shift happened through three women of country: Kacey Musgraves, Maren Morris, and Mickey Guyton. It's an interesting look behind the scenes of the country music industry. I recommend this if you love country music or are interested in stories of women overcoming obstacles to succeed.

Happy Reading!

They say you can't teach an old dog new tricks. An Attorney's Proof of God is evidence to the contrary. Written by one of our own church members, Ray Scott, this work details Ray's findings on the confluence of science and faith that led to his conversion from an agnostic to now a Christian. Utilizing his skills as a retired attorney, it is heavy in research and data but is a relatively easy and quick read. His book covers a breadth of topics ranging from the Big Bang, evolution, the flood, and our universe. Throughout it all Ray unpacks his research as to how he came to believe God is at the center of it all. Whether you believe in an old or young earth, evolution or intelligent design, I'd encourage you to pick this up on Amazon for a read as Ray models how we faithfully wrestle with the question, "was mankind evolved merely to survive or created by God far beyond what is necessary to survive?"

Mission Moment

Last year at the International Council of Community Churches annual meeting I got to know Rev. Phoebe Kitson-Davis who serves a small ICCC congregation called Church of the Loving Shepherd in West Chester, PA. As we talked about our churches, Pastor Phoebe lamented she wasn't able to bring any of her members to conference with her. Most of her younger members couldn't afford a five-night hotel stay. It was a bummer she told me because she thought a few had a real passion for the church.

I told her my congregation does a good job with scholarships and I thought we could offer one for a young person to come with her next year. I took the idea to the Mission Team and they voted yes! We mailed a check and to be honest I forgot all about it.

This year at conference I saw Pastor Phoebe again. She excitedly introduced me to a young church member of hers, Sarah. Sarah was grateful to be at conference because over the past year she has discerned a call to seminary. She will begin at Yale Divinity School this fall to study theology and the arts!

This scholarship was made possible by your regular giving to our budget. Your generosity means when we encounter a need we are able to meet it. I have no idea how God will use Sarah in the days ahead, but I know the wider church will be blessed by her gifts.

Thanks be to God!

CHURCH INSURANCE

Insurance is the one thing you pay for that you hope you never need to use. Just like you have homeowners, vehicle, and health insurance, so does the church. There are two teams in the Community Church that are responsible for insuring our assets – Trustees and Personnel. The Trustees are charged with seeing that our property is safe and covered by adequate insurance, while the Personnel Team recommends benefit packages for our employees (our greatest assets).

Through Brotherhood Mutual we carry a Commercial MultiPeril Policy for property and liability, a Business Auto Policy to cover our truck and trailer, and a Workers Compensation Policy as required by state law. The Trustees review the coverage under the multiperil and auto policies periodically and make appropriate adjustments. Currently the premiums for these policies represent 9% of the Trustees budget.

The Personnel Team administers the health insurance for our full-time employees. Annually they review the policy and currently our employees are insured through BlueCross/Blue Shield of Tennessee. Because this benefit is 12% of the personnel budget, the team is always evaluating new carriers to see if there are any comparable policies available at reduced premiums.

Here at the Community Church, we take our risk management responsibilities seriously and strive to provide appropriate insurance protection at the best cost. If you have any questions, please email accounting@tellicochurch.org.
